

Big Brother winner finds shining Knight after sleeping rough

Big Brother winner Josie Gibson was particularly glad she could stay in a different house after sleeping rough overnight in Edinburgh.

The 32 year old TV personality, who shot to prominence after winning the reality TV show in 2010, joined thousands of others in Princes Street Gardens as part of a campaign to end homelessness. Afterwards she stayed at the award-winning luxury serviced apartments The Knight Residence by Mansley near Edinburgh Castle.

Big Brother follows a number of contestants isolated from the outside world in a custom-built house. She secured the largest winning margin in any of the series and went on to be a regular guest host on Channel 5 magazine series OK! TV, and appear in many TV shows.
