Flying Butler Apartments, an operator of serviced apartments in London, announces the opening of three new buildings for summer 2018

London, June 2018 Flying Butler Apartments announces the opening of three new developments to add to its serviced apartment portfolio. The first of these is a brand-new conversion of a listed building in York Street, NW1, a moment’s walk from Baker Street underground station and Marylebone Village. The second development is in Ealing, containing 11 apartments and includes a luxury gym and sauna. The third development is the recently completed conversion of a hotel in Farnborough into 14 luxury serviced apartments.

Each of these buildings is either newly built or extensively renovated to Flying Butler’s exacting standards. All offer modern, healthy and comfortable living spaces, with the highest standards of fit-out.

Peter Strafford, Director of Flying Butler, said “Flying Butler’s portfolio expansion reflects its growing ambition in the UK market and matches guest demand. Because these buildings are brand new, we have been able to specify the fit-out to the high standards for which the company is well known.”
